

This is an email forwarded to us from Josh Jundt at WYDOT. It was sent from Tyke Hart of Qwest Communications. Qwest's Gillette facilities were impacted throughout the project and it required close communication and coordination between all parties to keep things running smoothly and keep impacts to a minimum.

“I just wanted to drop you a short note to tell you what a wonderful job is being done on the S. Douglas Highway Expansion. And, I’ve never worked around a more conscientious or courteous bunch of folks. They have never hesitated to halt their operations to call or drop in to ask questions if something appeared to be out of the ordinary or if some minor adjustments were needed from any of the concerned parties. This project has been refreshing, given the tight area from which the work is being done in and the time frame for phases of completion. I will not hesitate, in any future endeavors, to bend over backwards to do what I can for you, WYDOT or Concrete Works of Colorado. If you ever need anything, please don’t hesitate to call.

Thanks,
Tyke Hart, QWEST